

Plastic Business Cards Make a Lasting Impression.

Plastic cards have become the new “hot” option for business cards. Electro Image LLC, have added plastic business cards to their line of products for those customers who are looking for ways to stand out from their competitors.

October 12, 2010 (FPRC) -- St. Louis, MO: Electro Image LLC, a Chesterfield based printing and graphics company, announced the addition of plastic business cards to their wide range of products. Plastic cards have become the new “hot” option for business cards.

According to Rick Spitzenberg, President of Electro Image, “business cards made of plastic material are likely to remain in circulation more than conventional business cards because of their durability. Plastic cards will also remain readable and maintain their new look for quite some time, no matter how frequently they are handled and they also offer an extensive selection of design choices. With plastic business cards, companies never have to be concerned about running out of design options as there is something for everyone, according to their taste and preference”.

Some of the design options available for plastic business cards are rounded corners, frosted finish, clear and they can be customized with multiple graphic design styles. The sturdy, waterproof cards also help to separate businesses from their competitors, providing an edge that helps them to stand out and get them noticed. In addition to separating businesses from their competition, the cards are also ideal for industries where durability is a necessity such as landscape companies, nurseries, sprinkler system companies, spas, or anyone who works in a wet environment.

Electro Image LLC produces printing at the lowest possible cost for a one-color to full-color print project. Rick Spitzenberg invites his customers to “give us your concept for your business, association, event or charity. We will design and print it! We handle business cards to large banners, and everything in-between”.

Centrally based in Chesterfield, Missouri, Electro Image LLC is a full service one stop inexpensive print and graphics source providing printing services for custom print projects ranging from affordable ad design to quality business banner displays. In addition, the company’s expertise and low cost printing includes professional brochures and flyers as well as glossy business cards design, inexpensive single sheet or multi part forms, budget presentation folders and customized stationery.
