

John Palmer Fine Art to Exhibit at 2013 Los Angeles Art Show

Escapism Founder Artist John Ross Palmer and his husband Ryan Lindsay will take their art gallery, John Palmer Fine Art of Houston, Texas, to exhibit for a second consecutive year at the 18th Annual Los Angeles Art Show.

January 6, 2013 (FPRC) -- After a tremendously successful first-time exhibiting at the Los Angeles Art Show in 2012, John Palmer Fine Art of Houston, Texas will return to the West Coast in January 2013 to showcase the Art Movement of Escapism for a second year in a row! The 2012 show hosted more than 100 prominent art galleries and drew more than 50,000 visitors with its two-show concept that distinctly separated Modern & Contemporary works from Historical & Traditional works. This will be the 7th international art fair for John Palmer Fine Art (with prior exhibitions at Art Chicago, Art Toronto and in Miami during the Art Basel Weekk) and the 18th Annual LA Art Show. Highlighting the Art Movement of Escapism alongside Artist John Ross Palmer will be Escapist Mentorship Program Graduate Artists: Edgar Medina (2010), Nubia Gala-Seibert (2011) and Tra` Slaughter (2012). Slaughter was voted 2102 Escapist of the Year by his Escapist Artist Peers.

Gallery co-owner and Attorney Ryan Lindsay shares, "Last year John Palmer Fine Art had such great support from our loyal collectors with several of them traveling to Los Angeles from Houston to attend the fair - we only hope that we can make them as proud this year!" Artist John Ross Palmer agrees, "We gained a slew of new California collectors in 2012 and we are thrilled with the opportunity to reconnect with them. Our fair participation in LA last year was our most financially successful to date and we're geared up and prepared for a record-breaking performance in 2013! Our program is empowering, filled with a massive range of talent and an exceptional story that breaks down artist stereotypes. We will wow you."
