April 23, 2013 (FPRC) -- Las Vegas, NV – 247inktoner, a Las Vegas-based online printer ink and toner supplier, has announced the launch of a free toner cartridge recycling program to help customers more easily dispose of spent cartridges in an environmentally sound way.

247inktoner's new program is part of the company's continuing efforts to better serve their clients while also helping to reduce the number of toner cartridges that pile-up in area landfills, says its owner Calvin Yu.

"We're very excited to offer this service to our clients, and to do our part to keep these old cartridges out of the landfills and into recycling centers where they can be transformed into useful products rather than adding to the pollution problem," Yu said.

247inktoner is an online company but that doesn't mean it cannot provide customers the same level of service as the larger box stores, many of which also recycle spent cartridges for all major brands, including Dell toner. The company has created a new area of their website specially designed to assist clients in submitting a request to recycle old toner cartridges. Once a request is submitted, 247inktoner clients then receive a free shipping label to be used when they send their spent cartridges back to the company to be recycled.

After a toner cartridge has run dry, it will more often than not end up in a landfill where it will stay and become part of the environment for as long as it takes for its plastic components to breakdown, often tens of hundreds of years. The 247inktoner program makes it easy, convenient, and totally cost free to recycle toner cartridges and to help the environment at the same time. Customers with at least eight cartridges can contact the company and receive a prepaid shipping label to be used when they recycle their spent toner cartridges.

So, not only is the 247inktoner recycling program convenient, it's also a completely cost free way to be environmentally friendly.

247inktoner carries a full line of genuine OEM and premium compatible laser toner cartridges, ink sticks and ink cartridges for all major brands of printing devices. Their compatible products save customers up to 80% off the equivalent original manufacturer (OEM) products, but deliver quality that makes it possible to still produce premium print quality and page yield. And now, 247inktoner clients can feel good about disposing of their spent cartridges in a cost-free, environmentally friendly way.

247 inktoner recycling program offers many benefits and one of those is the fact that their website operates 24/7. So, no matter what time of the day or night, weekends or holidays, anyone can order ink and toner cartridges from the 247 inktoner website and, if they choose, also recycle their old cartridges without ever leaving their home.

This new program, says Yu, makes it possible for 247inktoner clients to continue to save money on new ink, while also option in on a program that ensure they are doing their part to see that fewer and fewer of these non-biodegradable products don't become a permanent part of the landscape.

"We feel very good about providing our clients with a convenient and totally cost free process to recycle their toner cartridges, and we hope that they also feel good about having a much better option for disposing of these used items," Calvin said.
