

HDAGolfProperties.com Reports Increased Demand for Golf Property In Hacienda Del Alamo

Hacienda Golf Properties helps people buy or rent properties with access to the best golf practice facilities in Murcia, Spain. They have seen an increase in demand for rentals and sales.

Fuente Álamo, Murcia February 12, 2014 (FPRC) -- There are many great reasons to move to Hacienda Del Alamo- the weather is great for most of the year, the coast is forty minutes away, and the real estate prices are cheap. These however are mere bonuses for most people interested in the region, because the true draw is nothing other than golf. The Hacienda Del Alamo is home to the best golf practice grounds in Europe, and Hacienda Golf Properties SL exist to help people rent or buy properties that will enable them to take advantage of these amazing facilities, and they even include green fees. With a return of confidence in much of Europe sales and rentals in the area are rapidly improving.

The company offers rentals and permanent residences because the Academy for golf at Hacienda del Alamo runs courses of varying lengths, from summer schools to full time training. Renting a house for a summer let is a far more cost effective way of making a dream training holiday come true than staying in a hotel.

Equally, for those committed to their game, whether they are young people looking to turn professional or retired individuals who want to perfect their art, there are a wide range of amazing Hacienda Del Alamo villas for sale at affordable prices. Thanks to Spain's economic downturn, the British and American currency buys far more than it does back home.

A spokesperson for Hacienda Golf Properties SL explained, "We created this business to bring the dreams of a huge number of people together under one roof. Many people seek to own a home abroad while many more wish to play golf on the very best courses available. Buying a property with us enables people to realise both those dreams, and we negotiate green fees as part of the property purchase, so in a single payment individuals know they will get access to the amazing courses and training, as well as a beautiful home to live in."
