

Murcia Properties Report Increased Viewings on Villas and Apartments In Hacienda Del Alamo

Hacienda Del Alamo is the home of Murcia Properties, who specialize in properties for rent and sale in Spain's finest golf resort region. They have reported increased buyer activity in 2014.

February 12, 2014 (FPRC) -- The region of Murcia in Spain is home to amazing weather, fantastic beaches, and more importantly, the best golfing region in the whole of Europe, together with one of its finest academies. Those looking to buy a second home there or those simply looking to rent a space for the summer can find a range of properties through Murcia Properties. The company offers the finest selection of Murcia golf properties for sale and rent, and offer services to organize golf tours and events on behalf of clients. Murcia Properties are reporting that buyer confidence is flooding back with properties getting increased interest in 2014.

The properties on offer vary from one to five bedrooms, with top flight amenities including private swimming pools and gardens populated by white sand and palms. The villas are built in the classic Spanish architectural vision while featuring the latest and most economic building techniques and features. These make the ideal base from which to explore the golf courses, with some of the properties just meters from the course.

The listings can be quickly parted into those for sale and those for rent, so those looking for a Murcia property for a summer escape in which to indulge in a golfing master class can view holiday lets on a per week price system. All properties are replete with high quality image galleries of internal and external shots to best represent them.

A spokesperson for Murcia Properties explained, "Here at Murcia properties we understand that golf is a huge attraction to many people who are coming to the Hacienda Del Alamo, which is why we are happy to negotiate package deals on behalf of golfing enthusiasts who may wish to come as individuals or as part of a business trip or group tour. We can organize for discounts on green fees and rental prices when booked in bulk, which makes the region and its industry leading training and courses more accessible to all those with a passion for the sport. We believe these packages are one of the reasons we are seeing an increase in demand for sale and rented properties."
