

VacationPackages.net Publishes Their Top Travel Destinations For 2014

Vacation Packages has created a new editorial countdown of the very best vacation spots for the year ahead, featuring well known favorites and exciting new emergences.

Sunnyside, GA February 20, 2014 (FPRC) -- Vacations are an amazing way to discover new places and immerse oneself in new experiences. However, many people spend year after year going to the same place for a predictable experience that offers diminishing returns in terms of both relaxation and enrichment year on year. There comes a time for everyone when it's time to look somewhere different, and VacationPackages.net has the answer. The site offers users a way to save hundreds on their holiday packages, and has just published a list of the most exciting destinations for 2014 so that people can have a new and unforgettable vacation experience.

The Top 10 Vacation Destinations for 2014 editorial includes amazing and uncommon destinations like Iceland, where the hot springs and aurora borealis are a once in a lifetime experience. Similarly, they have less common tourist destinations like Cape Town, South Africa and Palermo, Sicily which offer safaris, and vibrant markets respectively.

The article has also identified some desert island choices for the beach-hugging set that still offer unique variations, such as Dominica in the Carribean, and eastern European cities that offer unique history and architecture that has only been seen by most in fairy tales. The article aims to provide something new for everyone, no matter what they're looking for.

A spokesperson for VacationPackages.net explained, "We aim not only to deliver cheap vacation packages but great vacation packages too. Unbeatable price has to be supported by an unbeatable experience, as we're not interested in providing low cost alone, but rather amazing value. We have been careful to develop our connections in these areas so that individuals who are interested in having a holiday in these exciting destinations can find a package that offers them an amazing deal to explore somewhere new. In this way, we are opening doors to our customers that they may not have thought about, and we believe if anyone gives these places a chance, they'll thank us for the recommendation."
