

Freelance SEO Essex Looks Forward to Awards Ceremony as Finalists Announced for the 2014 Essex Digital Awards

The finalists for the five categories of this year's Essex Digital Awards have finally been announced. Excitement for the awards ceremony is in the air as the closing date for the judging panel draws closer.

April 2, 2014 (FPRC) -- The judges of the first ever Essex Digital Awards have now chosen their finalists and have been extremely impressed by the level of talent of the organisations that have entered the awards. All the associates of the EDAs, including Associate Sponsors Freelance SEO Essex, are looking forward to the upcoming ceremony.

The Essex Digital Awards (abbreviated to the EDAs) is the first award scheme of its kind to recognise the flair and aptitude for web design, development and marketing in the county when applied to online businesses, schools and charities. The Awards aim to reward the exceptional online talent in the county and have been granted the support of the Essex Chronicle, which has helped bring the scheme's plight to a new and wider audience.

Each of the five Awards categories is home to five nominees and on the 24th April 2014 contenders will find out whether or not they are going to take home a gold, silver or bronze award for their outstanding online achievements.

The EDAs' panel of independent judges have all been taken back by the amount of high-quality entries received by organisers and have said that there has been an almost equal amount of admission from businesses, schools and charities. Joe Davis works for Total Digital, a firm that is based in Billericay, and is on the judging panel this year. "There has been a real cross-section of companies, schools and charities," he said in a recent blog post on the official Essex Digital Awards website. He also revealed how all of the judges are "very excited" to be a part of this brand new scheme.

The Awards ceremony will take place on the 24th April 2014 at the Ivory Rooms in Billericay and organisers are delighted that demand for tickets has so far been extremely high. The sale of tickets for finalists has passed and a limited number of standing tickets will go on free sale from Tuesday 2nd April 2014.
