

Sheds First Offer Great Savings On A Range Of Traditional Wooden Sheds With New Prices

Sheds First has created amazing savings opportunities for customers looking to invest in a traditional wood-built garden shed, with bigger units offering even bigger savings.

San Francisco, CA, February 2, 2015 (FPRC) -- The garden is a wonderful opportunity for people to cultivate their own private outdoor space and create a natural retreat from the pressures of the busy urban world. Such cultivation cannot happen without the right tools however, and storing those tools, as well as finding a place to use them, can be difficult without a shed. Sheds however can both expensive and poorly built if bought from the wrong source. Sheds First offers reliable, hardwearing sheds in a range of materials, and have just launched discounts on their wooden sheds that will enable people to save money on outdoor space.

Sheds First is offering people the opportunity to save between a hundred and thirty pounds and two thousand five hundred pounds on their range of wooden sheds, which offer everything from a small cabin to a large shed with windows and doors and the capacity for furniture storage and more.

The wooden sheds come with a 10 year anti-rot guarantee for maximum peace of mind and are readily assembled with just a basic toolkit. The sheds also represent an evolution in design, with specialized corner sheds and summer houses that offer a different aesthetic and functionality from traditional sheds.

A spokesperson for ShedsFirst.co.uk explained, "We understand that January is perhaps a little early to be thinking about gardening, but spring is fast approaching and people will need a base of operations if they really want to tackle the garden and get it looking crisp and beautiful through the liveliest months of the year. As such, we have created a sale on our wooden sheds to ensure that people have every incentive to get their fingers green, with an opportunity to save money that in turn can be spent on cultivation, or simply make a shed a possibility for 2015."
