

Better Espresso Machines Reviews Releases Much-Anticipated Take on Breville BES870XL

Reviewers go in depth with highly popular, mid-range Breville machine, finding much that justifies the hype, along with some important points many overlook, Better Espresso Machines Reviews reports

Seattle, WA, February 2, 2015 (FPRC) -- Better Espresso Machines Reviews, the Internet's leading destination for reviews of home-based espresso and coffee machines, published an important new look at the Breville BES870XL. The most frequently requested feature ever on the heavily trafficked site, the comprehensive, in-depth Breville BES870XL home espresso machine review delves into one of the most popular and talked-about units on the market today. Like all of Better Espresso Machines Reviews' offerings, the new feature makes good use of the accessible question-and-answer format that has proven to help readers make better purchasing decisions with a minimum of effort.

"We have published dozens of espresso machine articles here at Better Espresso Machines Reviews," site representative Carel Lee, "but we had never before experienced such an outpouring of demand for a review of a particular unit. We're happy to say that our long-awaited review of the popular, highly capable Breville BES870XL is now being served up steaming hot to site visitors."

Once thought of as generally unsatisfying alternatives to the expensive, highly capable machines used to make espresso drinks in coffee shops, consumer-grade espresso machines have come a long way. Many of today's units produce plenty of the steam pressure needed to coax sweet, pleasing flavors from good coffee beans, allowing for the creation of satisfying espresso drinks at home and with a minimum of fuss.

Better Espresso Machines Reviews was founded in the fall of 2014 to help consumers sort through the multiplying pile of machines contending on the market for their attention and dollars. The site quickly caused a stir among coffee lovers everywhere, because its extensive but accessible machine reviews offered up the kinds of useful, practical perspectives that had previously been difficult to find.

Better Espresso Machines Reviews' just-published take on the Breville BES870XL machine is the most anticipated in the history of the site. An extremely popular choice with online buyers, the BES870XL targets coffee lovers who are looking to move up from entry-level units, combining a professional-grade steam pump system with a satisfying assortment of convenience features, including a cup warmer and conical-burr bean grinder.

That mix of bullet points has given earned the BES870XL a reputation for being the best Breville espresso machine for home users in some communities, with impressive consumer ratings at sites like Amazon and WalMart appearing to back this opinion up.

As usual, Better Espresso Machines Reviews new review of the BES870XL goes in-depth, while presenting the editors' findings in an accessible format that makes it easy for readers to pick out points of interest. Those interested in whether the BES870XL proved through Better Espresso Machines Reviews' rigorous, intense testing to be the best Breville espresso machine of all can find the new report linked prominently from the site's main page.
