

DNib Offers Exclusive One Word Domain Phones.net To Businesses For Outstanding Reserve Price

Domain Broker DNib is offering for sale one of the best domains of the year, Phones.net, a domain that benefits from over 46 million broad term searches a month

Jasper, Indiana, February 4, 2015 (FPRC) -- When marketing a business online, it all starts with the domain. Having a strong domain will make websites easier to find in searches and allow more traffic to flow to the site. One word URLs have many advantages, first and foremost that they are the easiest to remember, making customer retention as easy as it can be. If the domain is also an exact match keyword the value of the domain is immense because of the traffic it receives. DNib is prominent domain broker offering brandable and keyword rich domains. Their latest sale could be the biggest of the year as the auction for phones.net begins. It's a powerful one word domain that has incredible traffic potential in an extremely lucrative market.

The advantages for telecom companies, mobile phone sellers and even repair companies are soon made obvious, as DNib reveals a staggering 46,500,000 broad monthly searches are made for the word "phones", and phones.net can easily sit at the top of the search engine results for all of these.

Equally, DNib are quick to point out the amazing value of this proposition, with rival phone.com being worth one and a half million dollars, while phones.net has a reserve price of a fraction of that, making it a steal by comparison.

A spokesperson for DNib explained, "We are thrilled to offer this amazing proposition at auction to provide business with the opportunity to get a great deal. The auction be on a first come, first serve basis and all inbound offers will be considered, so businesses should place their bids now, as the auction could close at any time. Phones.net is just one of many powerful one word domains we have across a wide range of industries, so businesses looking to develop powerful online presences should bookmark our site for regular updates. We look forward to providing a new home for phones.net and helping a business thrive online."

About DNib: DNib is an online marketplace for brandable and generic domain names that also offers the best domain brokering service in the industry. DNib offers domain names in brandables, businesses, services, entertainment, products and premium categories. The site is regularly updated with the latest URLs including full details of their prospective value and reserve prices. For more information please visit: <http://dnib.com/>

Contact Information

For more information contact Dean Smith of DNIB.com (<http://www.dnib.com>)
812-403-3372

Keywords

Phones.net
so businesses should place their bids now

You can read this press release online here