

Sick of Dealing with Blocked Drains? LDF's New Pre-planned Maintenance Programmes May Be the Answer

London Drainage Facilities (LDF) is offering offer a free site inspection for those experiencing regular drain blockages.

February 18, 2015 (FPRC) -- The leading London-based drainage company is providing a site inspection service, through which they will arrange for an LDF surveyor to visit the affected property and carry out an assessment to determine where the root of the problem lies. The initial site assessment is completely free and is offered as part of the LDF's drain maintenance service in London.

Once the surveyor has determined what's needed to resolve the issue, a tailored estimate will be drawn up to suit the maintenance needs of the property owner.

Fraser Ruthven, Growth and Strategy Manager at LDF, explains how his technicians will not only correct the problem but offer advice on how to prevent recurring blockages from happening in the future.

'Often, blockages occur when there is a fast build-up of sediment or scale around heavy used drains such as toilets and kitchens,' he explains. 'This build-up significantly reduces the flow of the water through the drains. When this problem arises the most effective course of action would be to descale where needed.'

The drainage maintenance service provided by LDF is a great way to prevent future drainage problems and to avoid replacing pipes and undertaking all kinds of other costly correction projects.

Fraser continues: 'We offer the free inspections so that we can provide a personalised quotation that will resolve each individual issue that our technician discovers.'

Companies throughout London can benefit from a free visit from a surveyor for resolution and prevention advice.'

Companies that have a contract with LDF also benefit from free unlimited callouts for all service drains.
