

Move Your Money Project Offers Two New LifeLock Promo Codes To Save On Identity Protection

Move Your Money Project is offering brand new promo codes for LifeLock products, which constantly protect identity and credit card information online.

San Francisco, CA, March 10, 2015 (FPRC) -- Identity theft is a relatively new practice in the online world, in which cyber criminals can harvest personal and credit card information to make purchases without someone's knowledge or consent, causing them to foot the bill for excessive unwanted purchases, delivered to the criminals themselves. Move Your Money Project is a website dedicated to helping people keep their money safe and thriving through innovative means and approaches. They have recently introduced two new promo codes for LifeLock, a service that helps people protect their identity at all times while online.

The new promo codes include 15% off a LifeLock subscription with a 30 day free trial included to create a discount equivalent to 20%. There is also a discount code offering 10% off site wide for optional extras and related products.

The two codes can be redeemed with a single click and neither has an expiration date, so people needn't worry about rushing into a decision. The page hosting the codes also gives a detailed breakdown as to the value of LifeLock, which helps people stay constantly vigilant against identity theft.

A spokesperson for Move Your Money Project explained, "These promotional codes are wonderful for people who are concerned about identity theft, and those who may have been stung before by the ease with which cyber criminals seem to be able to harvest personal information. We are offering 10-20% off a program that monitors, scans, responds, and tracks all personal data given by individuals to websites and offers detailed insights on current credit rating and more. We consider these essential services, so we are pleased to offer the opportunity to buy them at such great value."
