

Anderway Construction To Offer Complete New Build Homes In New Service Expansion

Anderway Construction has specialized in extensions, conversions and conservatories for years, and is now offering completely new build homes for individuals or investors.

Leybourne, Kent, April 1, 2015 (FPRC) -- Any person that has ever bought a home has customized it. This nesting instinct to define a territory and express one's personality through artistic choices of space and décor runs strong in everyone. Many people achieve this by building extensions, converting rooms or adding conservatories. Anderway Construction (<http://www.anderway.co.uk/>) has helped thousands of customers do just that. But for many clients this is not enough, and they seek to design their own home from the ground up. That's why Anderway is now offering full New Build homes, from concept to finished product.

The new build service includes everything from the initial design to the construction, consulting with clients every step of the way to ensure the project meets their requirements while also fulfilling all building regulations. The spaces can be individual homes, flat blocks or terraces, meeting both individual and commercial needs.

This all-encompassing design and build service is perfect for today's individualistic society, wherein more people than ever want to express themselves through design and architecture. Anderway's expert team allows people to do just that. The new builds can also be created to include modern features like home offices, to meet with 21st century living standards.

A spokesperson for www.Anderway.co.uk explained, "Our new build services are designed to offer people the fullest logical extension of the services we have been providing for over seventy years in Kent and Sussex. We have been helping people transform their homes, but now for the first time we can help clients define their homes, from the ground up. This new service is designed for those who can see potential in investing in land and constructing a new home, which will cost less than buying one and be worth far more when it comes to selling it, due to the modern design and impeccable build quality."
