

College Essay Advisors Announces #CEAFREEDAY, 24 Hours of Free Essay Help

The Company Will Offer Premium College Application Essay Services For Free All Day on Oct 1, 2015.

September 29, 2015 (FPRC) -- The experts at College Essay Advisors (CEA), who have been helping students conceptualize and edit winning college application essays for over a decade, will be offering a variety of their premium services free of charge on #CEAFREEDAY, Thursday October 1, 2015.

With early decision and early action deadlines right around the corner, CEA is offering free essay advice to students around the globe and giving away a host of their hallmark services for 24-hours only. CEA's instructional video course, College Essay Academy 101, will be free from 12am-11:59pm EST, with access lasting through the end of the 2015 application season. 100 students will be given 15-minute essay reviews by CEA's advisors. Starting at 9am EST, students and parents will also have the opportunity to pose their most pressing questions to CEA's team of experts across a variety of outlets including Facebook, Twitter and Tumblr. Applicants will even have access to Founder and Chief Advisor Stacey Brook via a Reddit AMA at 9pm EST.

"Around this time of year we are barraged with questions about what makes for a successful admissions essay," says Brook. "We want to proactively dispel common college essay-related myths, dispense easy-to-follow advice and share our strategies and expertise with as many applicants as possible."

To participate in #CEAFREEDAY, students and parents should RSVP on the College Essay Advisors Eventbrite event page or follow the #CEAFREEDAY hashtag on social media. Full details about giveaways and participation will be released on the event pages and the College Essay Advisors blog at 9am on October 1.
