New Delhi, Delhi --November 23, 2015 (FPRC) -- Recent Google statistics indicate that ninety-three percent of people launch their online sessions by using a search engine. In addition, three-quarters of those who do use a search engine will never scroll past the first page of results in order to find something they're searching for. This means that the websites that appear on the first page for a relevant search term will get seventy-five percent of the traffic, and those who ignore search engine optimization are left scrambling for scraps.

It is with this dilemma in mind that Paduka Consultants Private Limited is launching their full suite of web development services. Their team knows what a massive impact SEO can have on website traffic and business expansion. For that reason, their team wants to do what they can to help website owners finally see the growth they've always desired.

V K Rajagopalan, a spokesperson for Paduka Consultants, stated "Creating a website without technical experience can be frustrating. Trying to find low competition niches that have a high enough search volume to make them worthwhile can feel like an exercise in futility. By the time that website owners finally manage to get those things right, the search engines will likely have changed their ranking algorithms. Our services take the confusion out of web development and remove the burden of figuring it all out."

As Rajagopalan continues, "Web design, keyword research, content optimization, and promotion are all things that matter a lot when it comes to web development. If these elements are not handled properly, business owners won't see their websites climb the search engine rankings and their traffic and sales will suffer as a result. Our SEO experts have many years of experience using effective methods to help website owners boost both their credibility and their visibility online. We're confident in our abilities to help people win in the online space."

"We're well aware that competition for the first page for any search term can be stiff. For most websites, being able to secure a top spot will depend on how good they are at properly executing the critical components of an SEO campaign. When a website owner hires us, they can be sure we'll get the job done right and deliver solid results."
