

Anand Software and Training Releases Android Version of ExamSim Products

Anand Software and Training, a leading apps developer, released Android version of its Exam Simulator products. Currently, Comptia products had been released on Googleplay store.

January 6, 2016 (FPRC) -- Anand Software and Training, a leading Android apps developer, released Android version of Comptia certification exam simulators. The Windows version of the exam simulators had been made available already through one of its associate websites, certexams.com. The Android version is available for the following products:

- a) Comptia A+ Essentials
- b) Comptia Aplus Practical Application
- c) Comptia Security Plus
- d) Comptia Server Plus

The above products are available in both free and paid versions. The free versions are limited to 60 questions, whereas the paid versions contain about 300 most relevant questions.

All the products are made available on Google Play. Please visit Anand Software Googleplay store for available products as on date.

Limitation of Android version of products: There are certain limitation on the features available for Android apps. For example, Simlets and router simulation questions have not been provided as it requires bigger screen sizes to view and complete such exercises.

The mobile apps had been tested thoroughly for various screen sizes, including 5", 7", and 10" resolutions. They have also been tested for most commonly used smart phones and tablets. The GUI interface is most intuitive and user friendly.

Please visit Anand Software and Training apps page for more information:
<http://certification.anandsoft.com/>

About Anand Software and Training: The company is based in Bangalore, India and involved in the development of desktop, and mobile apps. We specialize in .NET technologies, web technologies, and mobile phone apps development using Java.

Disclaimer: Anand Software and Training is not associated or affiliated with any other company, including Comptia, Cisco, and others.

Contact Information

For more information contact Vijay of Anand Software and Training
(<http://certification.anandsoft.com>)
+918026634450

Keywords

Comptia certification

Comptia Aplus

Comptia Security Plus

You can read this press release online here