San Antonio, TX -- February 11, 2016 (FPRC) -- According to predictions made by Forrester, one of the world's leading research firms, business technology spending will continue to grow by leaps and bounds well into 2017. In fact, it is expected that companies around the world will be spending upwards of $827 billion dollars on their technology needs.

It is with this prediction in mind the A1 Bizcom is announcing that they are offering risk-free consultations to business owners who need a business phone system installed. These consultations are designed to help business owners ensure that they spend their technology budget wisely on a system that truly fits their needs.

Ruben Pina Jr., a representative for A1 Bizcom, stated "Having the right business phone system is essential for company growth. Without it, both employee productivity and customer service will suffer. The risk-free consultations that we are offering to business owners allow us to share our expertise with them, helping them choose the best phone system for their budget and their needs. In fact, after a free consultation with our team, many business owners are able to cut their technology bill in half while still taking advantage of new technology at little to no cost to them."

As Pina goes on to say, "The best thing about choosing A1 Bizcom is that we can offer companies both large and small a wide range of phone system solutions. For small businesses or those companies who don't require much volume, we have a large selection of used phone systems that are ready for installation. For larger companies or those that need features like conferencing and mobility that newer technology can offer, we have new phone systems like the samsung officeserv that are expandable in small increments and can handle just about anything that a business may need."

"Ultimately, it is our goal to implement solutions for business owners that will allow them to communicate with employees, colleagues, and customers in the most effective and efficient way. Whether it's a used phone system or something brand new, we'll take care of the installation and implementation so that business owners can focus their attention and efforts on taking their business to new heights."
