

Mentalist Ehud Segev to Roll Out Workplace Mentorship Program

Ehud Segev, a highly popular mentalist, is working on rolling out a workplace mentorship program.

November 10, 2016 (FPRC) -- Ehud Segev, also known as The Mentalizer, has said that he is working on a workplace mentorship program that will inspire thousands of corporate employees around the world. The goal of this program will be to help workers enhance their memory, increase their creative thinking skills, as well as sharpen their influence among colleagues. To make this happen, Ehud uses a special set of steps that include pendulum programming and other activities. In the past, he has attended corporate workshops and held sessions where he trained employees with the goal of increasing their job satisfaction and output.

Ehud is a senior mentalist who has been featured in the Guinness Book of World Records. Among other feats, he has been recognized as a top mind reader. In addition, Ehud can bend spoons with his mind, make credit cards airborne without even touching them, and do a lot of other things that ordinary people cannot even imagine. It's hard to believe that his abilities are not magic. Mr. Segev points out that he simply taps into the inner powers of the human mind, and emphasizes that every human being can be able to do the same things he does.

Born in the City of Safed in Israel, Ehud's journey as a mentalist and world-class performer started when he was still a young boy. Rather than play with his age-mates, the young Segev would spend hours engrossed in books on mind reading, body language, mysticism and a lot of other highly cryptic subjects. At one time his local librarian was so alarmed that he requested signed permission from Ehud's mother. By the time he was reaching his early 20s, Mr. Segev had received massive attention from Israeli media. He also started traveling the world, performing and entertaining guests in all sorts of events. Ehud Segev is a gifted communicator who understands the inner workings of human psychology. In addition to performing extraordinary feats, he also constantly educates leaders, entertains kids, and shares incredible wisdom with his audiences.

In recent weeks, Ehud has performed at events in New Delhi, London, and New York. The new mentorship program will focus enterprise organizations from all over the world. Hannah Tiram, who works public relations at Ehud's Mentalizer Education, said, "Mentalist Ehud Segev is working on the outer templates of a workplace mentorship program that he'll roll out all over the world. Ehud has been a globally acclaimed mentalist for years. His ability to read minds, decode body language and predict thought patterns borders on the supernatural. In the recent months, the mentalizer's schedule has been loaded with event appearances and performances. But he's still finding time to work on a high-level program that can help corporate employees increase their productivity and mental prowess. The program will be ready before the year's end, and will be an essential tool for enterprises that are looking to boost employee capabilities and increase job satisfaction."
