December 9, 2016 (FPRC) --

Surveillance Secure has been awarded a project upgrade and install a new multiple-facility video surveillance system for Maryland's largest newspaper— The Baltimore Sun!

Twelve facilities of the Baltimore-based newspaper are receiving high-quality video surveillance solutions from the industry leader in security solutions, Surveillance Secure. The Baltimore Sun reaches more than one million readers around Maryland and needs enhanced security for its twelve facilities to distribute the popular paper.

Here's what Surveillance Secure is doing to improve security for the Baltimore Sun's facilities.

Higher Quality Video

By incorporating the latest technology for video security solutions, Surveillance Secure is able to provide The Baltimore Sun with a better quality of video. When a grainy or unfocused picture is present, security videos often pose more questions than answers.

By upgrading the video to provide the latest and highest quality surveillance video available, Surveillance Secure is able to help confirm the following:

- People on site when they should be; people not on site when they shouldn't be
- Ensure the paper is present at the facility when and where it's supposed to be
- Prevent theft from unauthorized visitors
- Maximize efficiency at the facility by stopping storage of personal storage
- Confirming that employees and paper deliverers are there when scheduled to be there

Surveillance Secure is also able to maximize the access control, networking, and storage of The Baltimore Sun's surveillance operations.

Networking Cameras

By effectively networking the cameras of all twelve facilities, Surveillance Secure is able to provide The Baltimore Sun with the ability to monitor multiple aspects of the business, especially in areas that receive high traffic. By networking the surveillance cameras, this popular newspaper is now able to improve efficacy, target problem areas, and prevent unwanted activity.

By centralizing storage, all video feed can be accessed in one place rather than maintaining a separate storage space for each of the twelve facilities. Since each facility is operated by The Baltimore Sun, centralized video storage offers a simple solution for video storage and review, therefore creating ease of access.

Better Access Control—Including Mobile

Being able to access video while on-the-go has become an essential in the world of video surveillance. No longer does the viewer need to be on-site to check the video feed. With mobile solutions, Surveillance Secure creates better access for The Baltimore Sun to keep track of all twelve facilities at the touch of a button.

Through a mobile phone or tablet, video reviewers can access the surveillance feed from anywhere with an Internet connection. Effective monitoring is a comprehensive solution that includes a better quality video, networking of all surveillance cameras, and on-the-go access that eliminates the need to be on-site to identify problems and check compliance.
