

New Premium Exfoliating Mitt by Thermalabs

Thermalabs has launched a new, exfoliating mitt.

January 20, 2017 (FPRC) -- Cosmetics powerhouse Thermalabs has introduced a new premium exfoliating mitt. According to the company, the new launch is a quality scrubbing glove that easily removes a self-tan and contributes to a smooth flawless skin. The company has said that the product will also ship with complementary accessory – its patented finger bound exfoliating device.

Thermalabs is a leading American manufacturer of cosmetics products, beach tents, and lately organic healthcare products. Headquartered in the City of New York, the company opened its doors some three years ago, starting with an introductory tanning lotion known as the 'Original Self Tanner'. Featuring all-natural ingredients, this product was a major hit. It sold over 10,000 units within its first week on the market and attracted incredible from industry press and authority blogs. Thermalabs has in recent times diversified its operations and launched different brands to take charge of various lineups of products. The company introduced its Supremasea sub-brand two years ago. Supremasea is in charge of all launches that are formulated from Dead Sea mineral salts. Tent World is another Thermalabs sub-brand that was introduced early 2016. It markets and distributes the company's increasing range of beach and sports tents. The final sub-brand by Thermalabs, Organic Healthcare, manufactures organic healthcare products based on over 1000 years of ancient medical knowledge.

The new premium exfoliating mitt joins a burgeoning list of cosmetics products that Thermalabs has launched over the last three years. Indeed, the company has established itself as a force to reckon with in the global tanning space. Some of the most successful releases that the company has made in this domain include its Ultimitt tan applicator mitt, the travel-size tanner, and the Glow2Go disposable tanning mitts. These three products have been perennial bestsellers on various online marketplaces, and have contributed revenue to the tune of millions of dollars for the company.

According to Thermalabs, the new premium exfoliating mitt is designed from top quality material that naturally helps exfoliate and remove dead skin cells, stimulate blood circulation, unclog pores, and reduces body hair growth for a healthier and youthful-looking skin. The company has also claimed that this new product helps treat common skin conditions such as wrinkles, dry skin, age spots, blackheads, acne, cellulite, eczema and ingrown hair. It also wipes common tanning flaws such as blotches, color blemishes, and residue.

Alex Howard, a marketing coordinator at Thermalabs, said, "Thermalabs has started the year on a high note after launching our improved new premium exfoliating mitt. This is a top-quality product that's built from organic material. It helps with multiple skin problems including age spots, wrinkles, premature aging, eczemas, in-grown hair and much more. It's also an ideal exfoliator to remove self-tanning flaws such as blemishes and residue. Our premium exfoliating mitt is currently available on our official website – www.thermalabs.com, as well as on Amazon. Each unit will free with a free piece of our patented fingerbound exfoliating device. We hope that this new launch will not only meet but exceed our users' expectations."
