Health Herbs 365 is constantly updating their website with information on herbal remedies for a wide range of different challenges, this time tackling tattoos and the common cold. Los Angeles, United States - March 13, 2017 /MarketersMedia/ -- Herbal remedies have been used for centuries by traditional healers, and formed the basis of many modern remedies, including aspirin and penicillin. Today, many people look to these herbal remedies as a less aggressive and more natural way to heal. Despite this, finding information on real herbal remedies that actually work can be difficult. Fortunately, Health Herbs 365 is a trusted website that constantly updates with new advice on herbal remedies for a wide range of ailments and challenges. The site has created two new articles covering both broad and niche interests, including one to tackle the common cold, and one to help skin heal after being tattooed.

Their 'how to get rid of a cold' article helps people understand the causes of the common cold as well as the ways in which people can try to prevent getting one in the first place. The article then goes into a wide range of cold remedies that utilize exclusively natural ingredients, and helps people identify which will work best according to the symptoms that are presented.

The article on tattoo aftercare offers step by step instructions, from the first day onward. It explains in detail how to wash a tattoo. It includes a breakdown of the most common moisturisers used to promote skin healing, including those made of only natural ingredients. The article even recommends products to avoid, and gives people a timetable to follow, showing three weeks to total healing.
