Plastic surgery has seen an increase in demand over the recent decades, as more and more technological advances have made such procedures both less painful and considerably safer. Many people look for cosmetic surgery to improve their looks, correct scars or recover after different injuries.

This increase in demand has been doubled by a similar increase in the number of clinics offering such services. However, unqualified or unlicensed surgeons can cause significant damage, from scarring to lifelong mutilation, which leads to additional costs for remedial surgery. Contacting a professional, licensed surgeon is crucial for safe and successful plastic surgery.

Dr. Brian Windle is a medical doctor specializing in plastic surgery. His services have been certified and awarded by prestigious institutions, and his experience includes many years of both academic and surgical practice.

Dr. Windle's specialty is facial reconstruction and cosmetic surgery. To respond to the constant demand for state-of-the-art plastic surgery services, the Seattle doctor has recently updated his services to include the latest medical innovations in eyelid and brow lift, facelift, chin implants and many other procedures.

Dr. Brian Windle strives to provide his patients with high standards of safety and customer satisfaction. For shortened recovery times, Dr. Windle uses short incisions and professional recovery techniques.

To determine the exact nature of his patients' needs, Dr. Windle provides extensive preliminary consultations assessing both general and specific health indicators, as well as providing all the necessary guidance for safe and effective recovery.

Dr. Windle also provides a variety of additional procedures such as acne scar treatment, scar removal, skin rejuvenation, laser resurfacing, BOTOX injections and others.
