Mommy Please recently celebrated the one-year anniversary of their best-selling play food set. As the company prepares for their second year of sales and production, a company spokesperson issued a statement this week reminding customers of the company's commitment to quality materials for their toy food set.

"Our play food set is made for children," stated Mommy Please spokesperson Elsie Murphy. "With this, comes a great responsibility that we take very seriously. We make every effort to ensure that everything we used in the production of our play food is of the highest standard of quality. This may cost more, but our customers, these children, deserve a product that is safe for them."

The Mommy Please toy food set is also shatterproof and able to withstand teeth marks from young toddlers. The plastic in the play food is also BPA-free. These things make these products both safe and attractive for children, which provides parents with peace of mind.
