

Dallas Nonprofit to Support Local Clean Energy Job Training

Good Faith Impact, a Dallas-based non-profit organization, will host a five day "Community Solar Installation Training". The training is intended for entry-level workers, interested in launching a career in the growing solar photovoltaic and clean energy technology industries.

Good Faith Impact, a Dallas-based non-profit organization, will host a five day "Community Solar Installation Training". The training is intended for entry-level workers, interested in launching a career in the growing solar photovoltaic and clean energy technology industries. Dallas, United States - March 15, 2017 /PressCable/ --

DALLAS, TX - Good Faith Impact, will host a five day "Community Solar Installation Training" on April 10-14 at the Martin Luther King, Jr. Community Center (2922 Martin Luther King Jr Blvd). The training is intended for entry-level workers, interested in launching a career in the growing solar photovoltaic and clean energy technology industries.

According to the 2016 National Solar Jobs Census, conducted by the Solar Foundation, one in every fifty jobs created last year was in the solar industry. Business models nationwide have shown that renewable energy has the potential to stimulate local economies.

"Community-based initiatives, such as workforce training, can achieve sustainable outcomes that rebuild local neighborhoods with the people & resources that are already there," explains Doric Earle, Ph.D, Good Faith Impact board member and committed supporter of the Fair Park district.

The solar training comes at a time where many efforts aim to revitalize South Dallas and Fair Park neighborhoods. Participants from the local community who complete this course will receive certificates of completion, an OSHA-10 certificate, and an introduction to local employers.

All residents of the Dallas community are eligible to apply, with a requirement of two (2) references. The training welcomes veterans and those with a criminal record. No previous experience or education is required. Those interested in attending the training can apply at the GFI website: www.goodfaithimpact.org

About Good Faith Impact: Good Faith Impact is a Dallas-based 501(c)(3) non-profit organization that offers trainings that promote environmentally conscious careers. Empowerment programming addresses the root causes of poverty through sustainable solutions that have a lasting impact, such as education, entrepreneurship, and economic development. It is through the empowerment of others that everyone moves forward together. The training would not be possible without major support from Good Faith Energy (GFE) and the North Texas Renewable Energy Group (NTREG).

Contact Info: Name: Tracy Wallace Organization: Good Faith Impact Fund, Inc. Address: 5139 Sharp St, Dallas, TX 75247, United States Phone: +1-214-676-0176 For more information, please visit <http://www.goodfaithimpact.org> Source: PressCableRelease ID: 177366

Contact Information

For more information visit <http://> (<http://>)

Keywords

You can read this press release online here