International tourism to Vietnam rose more than 40 percent year-over-year for first two months of 2017, and company's new tours and special offers ensure rewarding adventures, I Tour Vietnam reports. HO CHI MINH CITY, Vietnam - March 16, 2017 /MarketMedia/ -- Vietnam's National Administration of Tourism has just reported that international visitor arrivals for February rose more than 40 percent compared to the year before. In just the first two months of 2017, more than 2 million tourists from other countries visited Vietnam, an increase of 33 percent compared to the year before. With so much interest in visiting the country, i Tour Vietnam is the best way to experience and learn about its largest city and other destinations.

New packages and special offers detailed at <https://www.itourvn.com> include a huge range of ways to see what makes Vietnam such a vibrant, fascinating destination for so many. From exploring Ho Chi Minh City's lesser-known neighborhoods or delving into its nightlife to spending time on the Mekong Delta, the new tours and special offers at www.itourvn.com ensure that every visitor can have a memorable, rewarding time in Vietnam.

"Like many others, we were truly impressed by the latest statistics from the National Administration of Tourism," said i Tour Vietnam co-founder and Managing Director Alexis Ly, "Interest in traveling to Vietnam has been growing steadily for years, and these new figures make it clear that the trend is still ramping up. While Vietnam is an incredibly dynamic and vibrant country, it can also be overwhelming for travelers to come to grips with. Our new tour options and special offers are designed to provide every participant with a real feeling for what makes Vietnam so special and exciting."

As part of the country's Ministry of Culture, Sports, and Tourism, the Vietnam National Administration of Tourism regularly compiles and publishes statistics covering international travel to the country. A report released in January attracted attention from around the world in revealing that total tourist visits for 2016 had risen 26 percent compared to the year before. An even more recent report including totals for the first two months of 2017 suggests a heightening of this already-impressive trend, with about one-third more international visitors compared to the same part of 2016 arriving to enjoy their time in Vietnam.
