New children's fiction author based in London England, Susan Mason, is launching her brand new book, "The Little Chick of Sunrise Farm". The book is set to go live 17th March, available through Amazon and is expected to become a big hit with fans of the animal story niche world. More information on the book can be found here.

This is the second book Susan Mason has authored. The book was written with the aim of helping children to understand the consequences of wrong-doing, along with the ideas of friendship, self-sacrifice and forgiveness. There's also particular excitement about this launch because it explains the Easter story in a new way that children can understand and relate to.

The Little Chick of Sunrise Farm sets its main focus on two young farmyard chicks, Josh and Jess. Readers will likely find a particular interest in the several plot twists, including Jess's resurrection. The illustrations were created by Dmitry Yakhovsky and The Little Chick of Sunrise Farm is being released by Bubble Publishing.

Ms Mason has a background in helping learners and readers in school in her spare time, including in her own daughter's class. She also has a Masters in New Testament Studies. This helped shape the creation of the book, by inspiring her to communicate moral and spiritual truths in a way that creates hope and joy for children.

When asked about why she wrote the book, Ms Mason said: "I wanted to communicate the Easter story in a fresh, accessible way"

Ms Mason has hopes that the book will help children and adults alike to comprehend what happened at Easter, maybe even for the first time, and celebrate its true meaning along with the fun of egg hunts and the Easter Bunny. This positive outlook from the author is certainly testament to her optimism considering some of the mishaps during its creation. At one point it really didn't look like the book would be illustrated at all, it was so difficult to find an artist who understood the sort of style she desired for the illustrations..

In a recent interview, the author made a point of thanking her husband and her parents-in-law for their part in the creation of the book, saying: "I would like to thank Tony and Jean Mason for their encouragement and helpful comments on the text, and Phil, my husband, for his input and support throughout the whole process of writing and publishing this book."
