Vancouver, United States - March 18, 2017 /PressCable/ -- Achates Security Agency, a security guard and patrol service in Vancouver, WA, is proud to announce that they are in the process of expanding their services into Oregon and the Washington metropolitan areas. The expansion has been made possible after significant growth within the company. Although they have only recently started to move into the said areas, they have already been able to attract a great deal of new customers.

A representative from Achates Security Agency says: "We're really excited about moving into Oregon and the Washington metro areas. In these areas, we will offer the same services that we have become known and respected for in Vancouver. Our goal is to be your loyal friend in private security, and we take that very seriously."

The company offers security patrol services, risk assessments, uniformed officers, investigative services, residential protection services, video monitoring, and executive & corporate security. At all times, the company follows a number of standards, including offering a consistent and reliable service; ensuring that their management team always responds quickly; and employing security officers who convey trust and convenience, and have a professional demeanor.

The company <http://achatessecurity.com/> has carefully built the reputation of being the best when it comes to security and patrol services. They take customer satisfaction very seriously, understanding the trust that is placed in them with the security of people's lives and livelihoods. Those who have used their services have left a wealth of positive reviews and testimonials. April T., a safety manager, for instance, says: "I would like to express my gratitude for the great relationship we have with your company. I cannot begin to express my absolute respect of and appreciation for the job Officer Williams does. I'm sure you are already well aware of how amazing he is, but I'd like to express just how glad I am that he works here and how much I value his work. Too often other security firms that we have used previously had a tendency to not handle us as well as they would do so for their more lucrative accounts. Almost three years later we still enjoy the same high level of service from Achates Security Agency. Thank you for being an excellent example of what honesty, integrity, and having a great staff can accomplish."

The company has a number of integral missions and values that they work by across the board. The same will be taken over to their new offices in Oregon and the Washington metro area, guaranteeing quality and professionalism. The company's representative adds: "Our philosophy is to be a loyal friend to our clients, providing the most professional and proactive security services in the industry today with our client's best interests and objectives in mind."
