Internet marketing has seen a tremendous growth over recent years. More and more businesses are investing significant amounts in different digital marketing strategies, in an effort to leverage the immense marketing potential offered by social networks, search engines and many other online resources.

Recent surveys show that more than 90% of all clients use online reviews and Google searches to find both online and offline products and services, making online visibility an important business success factor.

However, Google visibility is particularly difficult to achieve without professional help. Recent Google search algorithms have placed an increased importance on a variety of factors such as html optimization, page responsiveness, local relevance and many others, making amateur search engine optimization inadequate for most ranking purposes.

Clayton Johnson has launched a variety of pay-per-lead digital marketing services for local businesses looking to improve their Google ranking and generate more clients.

Unlike most digital marketing agencies that charge a fixed or monthly rate for their services, Clayton Johnson offers pay-per-lead services, allowing the clients to pay exactly for the amounts of quality leads they require.

The Minneapolis SEO expert provides a variety of SEO services, including content optimization, keyword integration, on-site SEO and many others. To ensure effective lead generation and improved Google ranking, Clayton Johnson also provides full backlinking services across a variety of high-quality platforms.

To provide reliable and high-quality services, Clayton Johnson works closely with his clients in determining the exact SEO needs of each particular business. Key factors such as niche, keyword competitiveness, target markets and many others are taken into account in creating a personalized SEO strategy. The ultimate goal of Mr. Johnson's SEO services is creating an adaptable business webpage that can rank organically for the target keywords.

Clayton Johnson currently provides free, no-obligation initial SEO analysis.
