Today is officially the first day of spring. With spring break, longer days and warmer weather around the corner, customers are beginning to look for things that are associated with spring and summer. What says warm weather better than a huge pink flamingo float? Teddy Shake has seen a continued increase in demand for their best-selling flamingo float. Although production for the float has been increased to meet this demand, sales increased so dramatically since the beginning of March, that the flamingo float is currently sold out.

"Just when we believe we have increased production enough to meet demand, we are proven wrong," says Teddy Shake spokesperson Bailey Anderson. "Although it is just barely spring, people vacation in warm places. People like to have pool floats for indoor pools and activities. Some people just like a flamingo and our product is a beautiful bright, pink flamingo. There are many different reasons that the demand could be up for the flamingo float. We are thrilled with the enthusiasm that customers have for our product."

The Teddy Shake inflatable is a huge flamingo float. It measures 80-inches in length. There is room for several children to ride the float, or even for an adult to lay down and relax on it. The materials used in the production of the float are of a very high quality. The float does not lose air during use, like many other pool floats tend to do. The flamingo float is made with four separate valves to inflate the float, so many people can help and have it inflated sooner.

Over 90 customer have written reviews of the flamingo float on the Amazon.com listing. 100% of those reviews were positive, with 96% of customers giving the float a perfect rating. One satisfied customer left a five-star review and said, "This is the absolute best beach float around. Four adults and two children floated around in the Atlantic this fall. Currently, my Flamingo is sitting in my Living Room, being used as a cushion to watch Football games on the weekend. The dogs and cat lay on there with me, and usually, we fall asleep. Extremely durable and the most fun I have had with a Floaty in a long time."

Sold only on Amazon.com, the Teddy Shake flamingo float is currently sold for $39.99. Although Teddy Shake has increased production and stock, due to the increased demand, customers are advised to purchase their float early, if they want it for the holidays.
