A new marketing tool has been launched by Curtis Chosen Marketing, helping businesses and individuals to set up Facebook fan pages with ease, and build a list of high engagement, real fans for their pages. The site explains that Fan Marketer is a software program that lets people build a list of real fans on any fan page they would like. This means they can create pages across a range of fields, related to a number of different topics, and can build a list of fans for that topic easily and efficiently.

There is nothing to install or download, which means people can get going quickly. Using a fully hosted SaaS app that can be set up in under two minutes, they can begin getting their fans in moments.

The site gives examples of fan pages that have been created using this tool, and showcase the benefits this can bring to users who want to create their own fan pages and start engaging with real fans around the world as soon as possible.

In today's market, social media has become crucial to building and engaging with an audience. Facebook is king where social media is concerned, with billions of users actively using the site, and most of them making it the first thing they visit when they log into their computer or mobile device.

When Facebook users find a fan page for a topic they're interested in, they can like it, which gives them an automatic stream of updates every time something is posted to the page. This means that page owners can update and engage with real people as often as they like.

Facebook will allow users to tap into analytics to make the most of their fan pages, and the Fan Marketer tool can help people to find the right content to post through keyword analysis to ensure maximum engagement.
