Plastic surgery has seen tremendous developments in recent years, with more and more people looking for professional cosmetic services to cover scars and other skin imperfections, recover from injuries, or simply improve their physical appearance. Technological and medical advances have made plastic surgery procedures safer and more effective, which makes industry experts confident that the upward trend will continue into the near future.

The main issue associated with this increased popularity is the proliferation of unlicensed clinics offering dubious plastic surgery services. These can have significant negative effects ranging from scarring to permanent mutilation, requiring significant financial efforts to remedy the damage. For this reason, prospective clients are advised to seek only professional, licensed and certified plastic surgeons.

The Portland Center For Facial Plastic Surgery is led by Dr. William Portuese, a board-certified plastic surgeon with extensive experience providing high-quality professional services to a wide range of clients.

The clinic provides a comprehensive range of facial plastic surgery services, including facelift, rhinoplasty, facial implants, neck lifts and more.

Dr. William Portuese specializes in closed rhinoplasty, a type of plastic surgery placing incisions on the inside of your nose. This eliminates visible scarring and contributes to the improved appearance of the final result.

The facelift procedures that the clinic offers are preceded by a one-hour consultation in which every detail regarding the individual procedure is discussed, including expected results, preparation and recovery, fees, anesthesia and many others. For the comfort of the patient, all facelift surgeries are performed under general anesthesia.

Other services include brow and neck lift, chin implants, tummy tuck, breast reconstruction and many others.
