St. Louis, Missouri - April 18, 2017 /MarketersMedia/ -- St. Louis Realty Advisors (<http://www.stlouisrealtyadvisors.com>) proudly announces they are expanding in the St. Louis metro market. This is good news for individuals in the area, as the real estate market is improving. Foreclosures dropped by almost 20 percent in the first quarter of 2017, as compared to the prior quarter. Furthermore, the month of March 2017 saw record lows in terms of supply in the housing market. Individuals looking to buy a home may find their dream residence sells even before it hits the market. However, some people still struggle to sell their home for one reason or another, and St. Louis Realty Advisors (stlouisrealtyadvisors.com) is here to help those individuals.

"A person may find they need to sell quickly as they inherited a home they cannot afford to keep. Others need to sell simply because they are being transferred by their employer and must move in a short period of time. Some homeowners find they are still at risk of foreclosure also and want to sell before they get to this point. Regardless of why the person needs to sell quickly, we can be of help in finding a solution that meets your needs," Henry F. Owens IV, spokesperson for St. Louis Realty Advisors, explains.

Homeowners may also find they believe this home is sold, only to have the sale fall through at a late date. This can lead to financial issues, especially when the homeowner has a contract on a new residence. The buyer may not be able to obtain the necessary financing, a problem may arise with the home inspection, there may be a problem with the home's title or the buyer's home sale may not go through, leaving them unable to buy a new residence.

"We can help home sellers who find they are in this situation. Don't let a problem with a home sale prevent the purchase of a new residence. We'll work with a homeowner to find a solution that allows them to purchase the new home and sell the one they currently have without a lot of hassle. There are things that a home seller cannot control, and we are ready to help in these situations," Owens continues.

For some home sellers, the problem is work needs to be done to the existing home and they don't have the time, the funds or the resources to get these tasks completed. St. Louis Realty Advisors buys homes in any condition. Furthermore, the process can often be completed in seven days or less, and sellers receive a fair and honest price for their residence.
