Pune, India - April 18, 2017
/MarketersMedia/ -- The increasing globalization and increasing global capital funding and advancement in medical technology has led to the betterment of international healthcare services. Medical tourism refers to the activity where patients travel across borders for the purpose of better health and treatment. It is estimated that thousands of US residents travel abroad for healthcare each year. Many factors influence the decision to seek medical care overseas such as cost effective surgeries & procedures, quality of the service which includes technical or mechanical quality and serviceable or functional quality in healthcare sector.
