A natural air freshener has been launched on Amazon with amazing holistic health benefits. Charlotte, United States - April 19, 2017 /PressCable/ --

Thinking about all the contamination and pollution surrounding the air created by all the industry of this technological era, it is tough to realize that kids and entire families are breathing this polluted air, leading to allergies and acute diseases such as asthma or other many upsetting respiratory diseases.

It is not just this sort of contamination people are facing each day. Even though one is not aware of the pollution sources and their repercussion in health, which can be alarming, there are many sources of electromagnetic contamination which are mostly generated by electronic devices such as radios, TVs, computers, tablets and mobile phones, which nowadays everybody has at home. Taking into account that most of the people do not even notice these devices are the main source of this radiation which is responsible for the lack of energy many people are dealing with on a daily basis, the resulting negative ions are known to increase stress levels and the primary detonator of the well-known sleep problems like insomnia. All these effects can lead to an immediate decrease in the body's feeling of well-being. More information at <http://www.usefulinnovation.com/>
