CANTON, OHIO - April 19, 2017 /MarketersMedia/ -- Founder and Chairman of The Granted Wish Foundation, Rodney Napier, is announcing the organization has again been recognized as a Better Business Bureau accredited charity. It is the fourth consecutive year that the non-profit has achieved such a respected honor, and is a reflection of the foundation's dedication to helping and enriching the lives of those less fortunate.

A Better Business Bureau accredited charity is any particular organization that meets all 20 of the Standards for Charity Accountability, based on a review of information and materials provided by The Granted Wish Foundation. Charities that receive this honor can participate in a charity seal program that allows them to show the Accredited Charity Seal on their website and in their written publications on websites or newsletters. If the organization is a seal holder, it appears in the heading of the bureau's reports. Rodney Napier is pleased with his foundation's accreditation, as it ensures a prosperous and positive future for children who seek the most help and assistance.

Established in 2005, The Granted Wish Foundation is a 501(c)(3) registered charity dedicated to helping the dreams of physically challenged children and young adults come true. Other services are the annual local Adopt-A-Family program. Volunteers shop during the Christmas season to offer household items, groceries and toys for those in need. Napier's team also supports the running of 'Rosalie's House', a fully furnished home owned by the foundation that provides local low-income families the opportunity to live comfortably at a reduced cost.

"It is such an honor to be accredited," says Rodney Napier. "The Better Business Bureau is a great way for The Granted Wish Foundation to excel at what it does best: helping children from all over the U.S.

Rodney Napier is the Founder and CEO of The Granted Wish Foundation.
