Shine Dental Associates of the North Shore, a dental practice that specializes in cosmetic and family dentistry situated in Syosset, New York, has released a public service announcement as June, National Candy Month approaches. Treating hundreds of cavities, tooth losses and gum disease cases yearly, Shine reminds the community that while candy is delicious and fun to eat, there are serious health implications associated with eating too much and failing to care for teeth adequately. More information is available at <http://shinedentalgroup.com>.

Just released, the community service announcement reminds every candy lover that if they want to enjoy candy, then they need to make sure that they brush their teeth and floss after every meal. It's also important that they also visit their dentist for an exam and clean at least twice a year.

According to the National Institute of Dental and Craniofacial Research, some 92% of adults 20 to 64-years have had tooth decay in their permanent teeth. Furthermore, more than 26% of these adults have untreated decay and on average 3.28 teeth decayed or missing, and 13.65 teeth missing surfaces. Many of these are treatable and preventable.

Of course, the dentists and dental hygienists at Shine Dental Associates, like anyone, enjoy a sweet treat now and then. But, they stress that moderation is the key to preventing decay, along with balancing sweet indulgence with dental hygiene.

Shine Dental, who have more than 20-years in private dental practice, care about their patients. As such they have developed a 'visiting dental care' service for the elderly and home-bound. Plus, they visit hospitals, extended care facilities and nursing homes to provide all types of dental services.

After treatment by Shine, patient Elena Caraballo said, "I never thought I would find my way back to a dentist office, but SHINE DENTAL is the place for me. Your teeth are so important to your overall health, and as a Diabetic, it is critical to stay on a dental routine. For many years, I stayed away from the dentist, due to several bad experiences, but necessity made me go to Shine Dental. I was so afraid of treatment and genuinely reluctant, but I needed emergency service. The Team there is so pleasant and understanding. They are very patient and detailed in explaining what they are doing for you. I was so pleased with the service, I have been back multiple times."
