Trevor McClintock is one of London's best and most committed landscapers, and has launched a new website to promote his services to Greater London audiences online. London, United Kingdom - June 2, 2017 /MarketersMedia/ -- Trevor McClintock has today launched his first ever online presence, to introduce his expert landscaping and gardening services to people throughout the Greater London area. The gardener honed his craft in his home town of Surrey before growing to become one of the capital's most respected gardeners. The new website will help him target his business toward homeowners throughout London and the surrounding areas.

The new site is fully responsive, loading quickly and seamlessly on any device or screen size. The site also features the latest in on-page localized Search Engine Optimization, which enables the website to be easily discovered by those searching for gardening and landscaping services near their location. This will allow more homeowners than ever to discover what Trevor has to offer.

The website also includes a full accounting of his services, which include everything from rubbish removal, watering and mowing to renovation, flowerscaping and landscape design. The company can handle every type of plant, from the smallest flowers to bushes and trees, offering the best possible variety of options to customers.

A spokesperson for Trevor McClintock explained, "As one of London's most experienced landscape artists, Trevor knows everything there is to know about gardens, and has kept himself up to speed with the latest design trends and fashions. This means they offer real experience with a contemporary edge, providing London homeowners with the best of both worlds. By launching this website, Trevor is looking to introduce his services to a whole new audience, harnessing the power of the digital revolution to deliver stunning results in the real world. Affordable, reliable and friendly, the team is looking forward to making new bookings as a result of the new website."

About Trevor McClintock: Trevor McClintock is a premier carer for gardens around the Greater London area. Trevor and his team have the experience and know how to provide all clients with the highest standard of care for their backyard, whether they require simple maintenance or complete transformation.
