[Lincoln, Nebraska] - August 04, 2017 - With so many aspects involved in Web Design, it's no wonder that startup companies can feel overwhelmed with the process of creating an online presence on the web. Alberto with Gravitare Web Design states, "We often find that new startups often times don't even have a company logo design for their business, and that's just the tip of the ice burg."

Gravitare Web Design, out of Lincoln, Nebraska, has taken a unique approach to helping small businesses market their brand online. Aside from creating a vivid and mobile friendly website for a company, they also include logo design, domain registration and free web hosting for the first year. "Our process is unique in that we will immediately begin logo creation and provide a few different options to the client. As part of the process we discuss color themes not only for the logo design but to set the stage for the website theme and layout. Once the client approves the logo we begin to create their website. Although our clients provide us with some content, we often times create additional content for our clients to help fill in any gaps."

Sound like alot of work? It is. Although with other design agencies, you can expect to pay fees ranging in the $5,000 to $10,000 range, with Gravitare Web Design you can expect similar quality of work at a fraction of the cost.
