SimulationExams.com Releases A+ Exams with Labsim

Simulationexams.com, a leading practice tests vendor, recently release Comptia A+® practice tests with labsim for candidates preparing for A+ Certification.

March 21, 2018 (FPRC) -- Simultionexams.com Aplus Certification Essentials practice tests with lab sims provide an integrated learning experience wherein the candidates would be able to have hands-on experience using lab simulator and at the same time use the practice tests for self learning and evaluation.

The A+ practice tests consist of 300+ questions with flashcard explanation and online feedback mechanism. The tests provide Learn mode and Exam mode so that candidates may use Learn mode if they are taking the exam for the learning purpose, and it's not timed. Exam mode mimics the actual exam environment, and provides a timed test with MCQs and performance based questions.
One would be able to identify the weak areas and put additional effort improving the same. Detailed stats are provided for each exam taken by the candidate. You would be able to provide feedback on any specific question from within the exam environment using Question-Feedback option. Display features include Night Mode, Font Adjust, and Full Screen modes.

On the other hand, A+ Labsim offers necessary lab skills for candidates by providing hands-on experience in performing the lab configurations. These include User Creation, Password changes, Network and Wifi settings, DHCP settings, etc. Check out the detailed list of aplus labs.

Other important features of the software include online updates, and error reporting. Download free demo software.

Other software available from simulationexams.com include network plus and security plus practice tests.
